

HUMAN RESOURCES MANAGER

BioCeuticals

Alexandria Based

BioCeuticals' Human Resources Manager (HRM) develops & directs the human resources policies and practices to meet BioCeuticals' business objectives. Reporting to BioCeuticals' Managing Director and with a functional dotted line to Blackmores' Group Head of HR, the BioCeuticals' HRM is responsible for implementing best practice human resources procedures and processes to support and nourish the employee-oriented high performance culture within BioCeuticals.

To be considered for this role you will have: -

- Tertiary qualifications in human resources or business;
- Knowledge of human resources theory & practice applicable to fast paced commercial enterprises;
- Experience in implementing best practice HR interventions aligned to business objectives;
- Leadership capability with experience in contributing to both strategic and operational assessment;
- Current detailed knowledge of employment legislation for Australian workplace operations; and
- Autonomous computer skills (word, excel, PPT etc.).

Additional experience and capabilities detailed below would be well received: -

- Prior experience supporting new initiatives with sound change management interventions (e.g. ADKAR or PROSCI);
- Training facilitation skills;
- Presentation skills; and
- Active HR profession involvement and AHRI membership.

We offer an attractive remuneration package consisting of base salary and superannuation, commensurate with experience.

Interested? Please email your CV plus a cover letter to careers@fit.net.au. Please put "Human Resources Manager Application" in the subject line and be aware that internal expressions of interest close Monday 30th of March. Phone queries can be directed to BioCeuticals Managing Director, Nathan Cheong on +61 410 490 924.

BioCeuticals is an equal employment opportunity employer.

Read more: <http://www.bioceuticals.com.au/page/career#ixzz3PJQOFeTV>

Follow us: @BioCeuticals on Twitter | BioCeuticals on Facebook